

Sam:	Hey, Tameron! Let's go out tonight?
Tameron:	I'm sorry, Sam. I can't tonight.
Sam:	Why not? What do you have to do?
Tameron:	I have to clean the house. My relatives are going to visit me this weekend.
Sam:	Okay, what about Friday night?
Tameron:	I can't go out on Friday either. I told you, my relatives are going to visit me.
Sam:	What about next Monday?
Tameron:	Sam, I have to work Monday through Friday. I can't go out late during the week.
Sam:	When can you go out?
Tameron:	I can go out next weekend.
Sam:	But I can't go out next weekend. I have to study for my final exams.
Tameron:	Oh well, maybe next month.
Sam:	I guess so.

	(Mandi calls Ryan on his cell phone.)
Ryan:	Hello?
Mandi:	Hi, Ryan, it's me, Mandi.
Ryan:	Oh, hey. What's up?
Mandi:	Not much. What are you doing right now?
Ryan:	I'm walking home from work. Why?
Mandi:	I have an idea. Let's go to that new Thai restaurant this evening.
Ryan:	OK, when?
Mandi:	What about six o'clock?
Ryan:	I can't go out at six. I'm going to go running when I get home, and after that I have to take a shower. Is seven o'clock alright?
Mandi:	That's fine. But I have to be home by nine o'clock because I'm going to watch a DVD with my friends.
Ryan:	Can I watch the movie with you?
Mandi:	No, you can't.
Ryan:	Why not?
Mandi:	We're going to have a "girls' night," so guys can't come.
Ryan:	Oh, I understand. You're probably going to watch a sentimental, romantic movie.
Mandi:	Yep, and we're going to love it.
Ryan:	OK, see you at 7:00?
Mandi:	Sure, let's meet at the Dupont Metro station at 7:00.
Ryan:	OK, bye.
Mandi:	Bye.
