

Adjective Clauses using where – that – who - whose

subject
The place where I work is nearby.
(adjective clause)

* you can use that instead of which

subject
The place that I work at is nearby.
(adjective clause)

* if using that use the preposition (at)

subject
That's the woman whose car got into an accident.
(adjective clause)

* use whose for people, things and animals

subject
Those are the people whose children were on TV.
(adjective clause)

subject
The man whose jacket was left on the chair came back to get it.
(adjective clause)

subject
Are they the customers whose luggage was lost?
(adjective clause)

* a pronoun takes place of a noun

Subject Pronoun

Object Pronoun

Possessive adj.

I
you he she it we they who

me
you
him her
it
us
them
whom

my your his her
its our your their

subject pronoun
Who picked up the bread?

object pronoun
I love Whom do you love?

subject pronoun
He picked up the bread.

object pronoun
I love him.